

Reform and Recovery

An Agenda for the New
Western Australian Government

IIPA

Edited by
Mike Nahan and Tony Rutherford

Reform and Recovery

An Agenda for the New
Western Australian Government

Edited by
Mike Nahan &
Tony Rutherford

March 1993
Published by the Institute of Public Affairs

©1993 by the Institute of Public Affairs. All rights reserved.

First published 1993 by the Institute of Public Affairs Ltd
(Incorporated in the ACT) A.C.N. 008 627 727

Perth Office:
46 King's Park Road,
West Perth, WA 6005, Australia

Head Office:
128-136 Jolimont Road,
Jolimont, Victoria 3002, Australia

National Library Cataloguing-in-Publication data:

Reform and recovery: an agenda for the new
Western Australian government

ISBN 0 909536 39 2

1. Western Australia—Politics and government—1990- .
2. Western Australia—Economic policy—1990- . 3. Western Australia—Economic conditions—1990- . 4. Western Australia—
Social policy. I. Nahan, Michael D. (Michael Dennis), 1950- .
II. Rutherford, Tony, 1947- . III. Institute of Public Affairs (Australia).

354.941

Opinions expressed by the authors are not necessarily endorsed by the Institute of Public Affairs.

Cover design by Tony Rutherford & Chris Ulyatt

Printed by Lamb Print, 9-27 Robertson Street, Perth, WA 6000

Contents

Editorial Note/Acknowledgements	vii
The Authors	viii

Section I: The 'Macro' Issues

1	Introduction.....	1
2	Reforming the Political Process	9
3	Debts and Deficits.....	35
4	State Revenue and Taxation.....	79
5	Budget Sector Spending.....	105

Section II: 'Micro' Policy Issues

6	Education: Western Australia's Schools.....	143
7	Health	169
8	State Welfare and Juvenile Crime	187
9	Homeswest.....	215
10	Local Government.....	235
11	Industrial Relations	243

Editorial Note/Acknowledgements

Three authors were responsible for the preparation of this book: Mike Nahan wrote Chapters 3, 4 and 5; Tony Rutherford wrote Chapters 1, 2, 6, 7, 10 and 11; and Alan Tapper wrote Chapters 8 and 9. The outcome is, nevertheless, very much the result of a collective process of argument and discussion among ourselves and others. Every chapter was submitted to our Research Committee, and most to other appropriate referees. The help of Chris Ulyatt, our Editorial Director, was invaluable at every stage of writing and editing.

We wish to thank the members of the Research Committee—David Band, Brian Buckley, Ken Clements, Bob Ewin, John Freebairn, Wolfgang Kasper, Chandran Kukathas, Bob Officer, Owen Powell, Campbell Sharman, Richard Snape and Ted Watt—for undertaking an onerous and otherwise thankless task. Our thanks, too, to a number of others, including our colleagues in Melbourne, John Stone, Des Moore and John Hyde; Toby Johnston, Nicky Cusworth; Michael James; Sue Rutherford; Paul Schapper; and John Corser. None of these is, of course, in any way responsible for what now appears.

In addition, the support of the following organisations is gratefully acknowledged. The publication of this book has been made possible by their generosity.

ANZ Banking Group Ltd
Argyle Diamonds
Chamber of Commerce and Industry of WA
Business Research & Development Fund
Hadson Energy Ltd
Hancock Prospecting Pty Ltd
Hartley Poynton Ltd
Hospital Benefit Fund of WA
M.G. Kailis Group of Companies
Voyager Enterprises Ltd
Wesfarmers Limited

Their support for this project does not imply that they agree with the arguments it contains.

Mike Nahan and Tony Rutherford

About the Authors

Dr Mike Nahan studied economics at the Australian National University. Since 1990, he has been the Director of the IPA's States' Policy Unit based in Perth and is a frequent commentator on the Western Australian economy and the fiscal policies of the Australian States.

Tony Rutherford trained as a historian at the University of Western Australia and Edinburgh University. Since 1976, he has been a public policy analyst, serving as adviser to a number of senior Federal Liberal politicians. His most recent publication was an essay in the collection Mabo and After, published by the IPA in November 1992.

Dr Alan Tapper studied history and philosophy at the University of Western Australia. He is the author of The Family in the Welfare State (published by Allen & Unwin and the Australian Institute for Public Policy in 1990). At present he teaches philosophy at the Edith Cowan University and the University of Notre Dame (Aust.).

Section I

The 'Macro' Issues